IRISH GOLFER IN DEFEAT

Miss Curtis or Miss Hollins Must Stand Between Cup and Miss Ravenscroft or Miss Dodd.

Wilmington, Del., Oct. 16.-Even if the cup should not remain on this side of the Atlantic, America at least will have the satisfaction of fighting it out to the last ditch in the women's national golf championship tournament on the links of the Wilmington Country Club.

In the third round to-day Miss Mario Hollins, of Westbrook, and Miss Harriet Curtis, of Essex County, came through on the upper side, and will meet to-morrow, while in the lower half the survivors were those redoubtable English players, Miss Muriei Dodd and Miss Gladys Ravens-croft. Consequently, the final round on Saturday is certain to have its international flavor.

In glancing over the day's golf it is noticed that all four winners were "down" at different stages of their matches. Most spectacular, perhaps, was the way Miss Hollins, after finding herself 2 down, with four holes to play, won them all and actrually finished 2 up over Mrs. E. H. Fitler, of Philadelphia.

Then Miss Dodd, the champion of Great Britain, stood 2 down at the seventh, while on one occasion in her contest Miss Ravenscroft was down to Miss Fanny Osgood, the Massachusetts champion.

If the size of the gallery counted for anything, the meeting between Miss Dodd and Mrs. Vanderbeck commanded the most interest. The fact that Miss Dodd had won the championship of Great Britain naturally made her the centre of attraction. Mrs. Vanderbeck also had a host of admirers, her game during the last few weeks easily being the best of any of the Philadelphia women. She developed quite a fast streak in her match yesterday, and if she had been able to hold the pace to-day Miss Dodd would have had to work harder for victory.

As it was, Mrs. Vanderbeck quickly became 1 up when her opponent landed in the bunker on her second shot at the first hole. The British champion took two shots to get clear of the sand and had to register a 7, so that the Philadelphia woman, who had taken three putts, was able to win the hole with a 6. She would have halved the next except for missing a putt of less than a yard, Miss Dodd winning in 3.

Miss Dodd Down for a Time.

At the fourth Mrs. Vanderbeck became 1 up again when the English girl supplemented a drive to the rough with an in different second shot to the brookside. The stroke lost there meant the hole, as the Philadelphia woman, making no mis takes, got her 4. Nothing further of interest happened until the seventh, where Mrs. Vanderbeck, thanks to a useful putt, won with a fine 3, theerby becoming 2 up, while gloved hands applauded liberally.

The gallery had little opportunity thereafter to rejoice, for this situation of being 2 down seemed to rouse the foreign visitor, who proceeded to reel off the next six holes in figures that would have done credit to even a Ouimet in one of his

The eighth hole is 567 yards long, and against the stiff wind prevailing it was a physical impossibility to get home in less than four shots. Miss Dodd did that, coming within an ace of bringing off the putt for a 5. The 6 was good enough to win, as her opponent made indifferent work of it with her brassie. A topped drive by Mrs. Vanderbeck prevented her from getting better than a 5 at No. 9, whereas Miss Dodd almost holed out with a rare chip shot and won in 4. That made the match all square, the strokes reading 45 to 46 in favor of Miss Dodd. It is more than 400 yards to the tenth hole, and both women were only a few yards off the green on their second shots. Their approaches were deadly, but Mrs. Vanderbeck missed the putt and became 1 down. That was the beginning of the end, as from that moment the Philadelphia woman showed increasing signs of unsteadiness. Her tee shot at the eleventh landed in a trap, and her approach to the twelfth took a bad kick to a pit at the edge of the green. In the mean time her opponent played like a machine, getting a 3 at the eleventh and another at the twelfth, where she laid a full iron shot dead.

"Did you ever see anything like it in your life?" sputtered Miss Edith Noblit, who had been pulling hard for Mrs. Vanderbeck, and added: "There's no use trying to play against that kind of golf."

and she added to her advantage by win- she would have defeated Mrs. Fitler much ning the thirteenth in a fine 4. Both which was halved in 7, but the British played out the bye holes Miss Dodd would had to make frequent recoveries from the

The cards were as follows:

Good Fight by Miss Osgood.

Miss Osgood kept the gallery in suspense more than half way around. First one and then the other would present an opening which her opponent would grasp. At the first, for instance, Miss Osgood topped a second shot to a trap, and, after failing to get out on her first attempt, lifted, as the other had laid her second on the Murphy has been boxing as a professional since 1903, a year longer than Mc-Farland, and he has participated in more than 200 battles. His defeats can be counted on one hand.

In 1905 Terry McGovern stopped him in one round and in 1911 "Knockout" Brown knocked him out in less than two minutes in a fake contest, Murphy being the victim of a job. Two weeks before that club. McFarland and Owen Moran are Murphy and McFarland are believed to be the richest boxers in active service. Both have saved their earnings and are property owners on a big scale.

McFarland was born in Chicago on November 1, 1888, and is 5 feet 8 inches tall. Murphy first saw the light of day on April 13, 1885, in this city. He is two inches shorter than his antagonist. The winner of to-night's bout will be matched with Willie, Ritchie, Freddie Welsh or Leach according to Billy Gibson's plans.

Joe Rivers has been offered a match with Johnny Dundee, the local lightweight, to take place on November 14, in Los Angeles. Rivers, according to report, spoke disparagingly of Dundee's ability, and Johnny is eager to give him a chance to prove his statements in actual battle.

Previous offerings at the Locust Valley track have been of a high standard-in fact, they have served to place the course on basis where sport of the best can be looked for-but the card to-morrow should eclipse all that has gone before.

In addition to the six events of the regular programme, an extra race for polo ponies has been arranged. It will be a six furlongs and the ponies will be ridden by gentlemen riders. In the Piping Rock Subscription race

In the Harbor Hill Cup, a steeplechase for three-year-olds, twenty-five jumpers are eligible, and it is safe to say that at least fifteen will parade in answer to the post call. Some of these started in the Northwood Plate last Saturday, but among the newcomers will be found several reputed cracks. Cassatt, one of the school of turfmen whose interest in racing is based on sentiment rather than on hope of financial returns. Up to a few days ago it was thought that this race would be an easy spot for the Cassatt representative, but latest rumors are that she will find formidable opposition for the rich prize in Harry Payne Whitney's Cherokee Rose II. This filly was a winner in England both this year and last, and her work in preparation for Saturday's race indicates she is trained to the hour. She is a bad actor at the post-one of the worst in trainingbut should she leave the post with the Flushed with victory and confident of poor start, she defeated Miss Gertrude Della Torre, at 3-6, 6-0, 6-3.

A team of veteran baseball players plan to piay a game with a convict nine on November 11 in Columbus. The last world's series should have been played there. Only penitentiary walls are high enough to check the course of "Home Run" Baker's drives.

One of the charms of the winter league season will be missing this year. The American League has decided to advance its annual meeting to November 6, right in the heat of the football campaign, in order that Comiskey and McAleer can attend before going around the world. The National League will hold the fort alone in December, but can be depended upon to provide ample thrills.

The National Commission will have charge of the bouts between the St. Louis Browns and Cardinals hereafter. The untoward events of last Monday, when the series came to an abrupt end because the umpires had no authority over the players, has resulted in an appeal to the commission for aid. The two teams have a five-year contract for a seven-games series in the spring and fall of each year. The contract was signed three years ago
